SPECIAL NOTICE

Due to ever increasing cost of operation it has become necessary that we raise all adult admissions 50 per cent.

NEW ADMISSION PRICES AS OF SEPT. 1—

ADULTS: Lower Floor 40c Balcony 50c
Children: 20c

We are not raising the admission prices on children and the price list at we include all taxes. All during 1950 our expenses have increased and we tried to pay by raising the adults tickets once or twice a month but this has failed to result in sufficient additional funds. We also had hopes that the Federal tax would be cut in half but the Korean war caused the Congress to abandon absolutely necessary and we assure you that if there is any reduction in expenses or Federal taxes we will in turn reduce our admission prices.

Appomattox Baby Receives Treatment for Polio

The family tree runs like this, according to Mr. Farrar:

John Walker, son of Dr. John Walker of Hanover County, Va., married Susan, Christian daughter of John Harvey Christian, in 1803, in Prince Edward County.

Their son, Benjamin P. Walker, was born in 1804. He married Sarah Branch, daughter of Samuel Branch, Benjamin P. Walker was appointed Justice of the Peace of Appomattox County February 14th, 1845. (See The Governor's Council Journal 18-4 ts).

Their son, Major Samuel J. Walker married Ann Walton, daughter of William Walton, of Buckingham County. Major Walker was Commissioner of the Revenue of Appomattox County, 1861 to 1865. He was commissioned a Major in the 170th Appomattox Regiment by the Virginia General Assembly.

Their son, Benjamin Walton Walker was born in 1832 and lived in Appomattox County until he

Lt. Gen. Walton Walker, U. S. Commander in Korea, Is Appomattox Co. Grandson

Lt. General Walton Harris Walker, Commander of the U. S. troops in Korea, descends from two old Appomattox families, the Walkers and the Waltons.

Information concerning the Appomattox connections of this distinguished officer was furnished the Times-Virginian this week by Mr. Stuart McL. Farrar, of Pamplin.

The Walker plantation was on the Appomattox River between Clover Hill and Hixburg, in that portion of Appomattox formerly in Backingham. This family gave both the name and the land to "Walker's Church," now the Hixburg Presbyterian Church. The voting precinct at Hixburg still goes by the name of Walker's Church.

The family tree runs like this, according to Mr. Farrar:

John Walker, son of Dr. John Walker of Hanover County, Va., married Susan, Christian daughter of John Harvey Christian, in 1803, in Prince Edward County.

Their son, Benjamin P. Walker, was born in 1804. He married Sarah Branch, daughter of Samuel Branch, Benjamin P. Walker was appointed Justice of the Peace of Appomattox County February 14th, 1845. (See The Governor's Council Journal 18-4 ts).

Appomattox Schools Open Tomorrow

School bells will ring tomorrow for Appomattox County students as the 1950-51 school year gets under way. School authorities urge that parents send their children the first day so that they will not be handicapped by late enrollment.

Fear that the opening of public schools might have to be postponed due to the polio epidemic was removed when health authorities gave the green light to the September 8 opening.

A number of the county school plants have been improved during recent years. The school at Stone-wall will not operate this season, and two small Negro schools have been closed, with students to attend larger schools.

A number of new teachers are joining the county school system this year.

As schools open here, the usual number of local boys and girls are leaving to attend the various colleges.

Beloved Gills' Collie Dead; Age 16

"Maggie," the faithful and valuable Scotch Collie, belonging to Mrs. William Fitzer Gills, died on August 30, at the age of 16 years.

Her invaluable help on the farm and for protection will be missed. She was trained by Mrs. Rebecca Shanks, who lives with Mrs. Gills, to get up the cows, guard anything she was asked to look after, to catch chickens and keep the stock on the farm in their proper place. Best of all, Maggie was loyal and friendly to all the family, serving as a protection at all times.

"Uncle Fred" Isbell assisted Mrs. Shanks in burying the beloved dog in a corner of the graveyard on the farm, amid wild roses and sweet fern. Everyone who has been to "Locust Grove" in the last 16 years knew Maggie and loved her.

The dog was brought to Appomattox in 1934 by William Haller Copenaver, of Marion, Va.
